LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS SINE DIE

The Utah state legislature adjourned sine die at noon today, and this afternoon, through the courtesy of the Harriman railroad system, the members of both houses are making a trip in a special train to Lakeside over the Ogden-Lakeside cut-off. The legislative train arrived in Ogden at 1 p. m.

During the morning session the senate and house forced through Senate Bill 279, which appoints the governor, the speakers of the house and senate as a committee to confer with a similar committee from the Colorado legislature and with the Colorado body to investigate the feasibility of the construction of the Moffat road. This bill was not one of the measures recommended by the joint sitting committee. Both houses also passed Senate Bill 230, Hyde, which transfers the office of state sealer of weights and measures from the jurisdiction of the state auditor to that of the state food and dairy commissioner.

Before the adjournment, Senator Badger was requested to sum up the work of the session in a short speech and complied with a brief talk on the work which has been done by the senators and representatives.

BOXES THAT HELD THE LOOT FOUND

But There Remains Much Mystery to the Robbery of the Reed Hotel—John Wall, One of the Bandits, is Found Dead in His Cell in the City Jail—The Other Robber is to Furnish Bail.

Following with strange proximity to the mysterious death of John Wall, the Reed hotel robbery suspect who was found dead in his cell last night came the announcement of the police department that two of the stolen money boxes have been found. What connection the death of Wall has with the finding of the tin receptacles the police will not now divulge. A bottle half filled with dark liquid, which is believed to be a poisonous drug, was found this morning in the cell of the dead man and adds to the mystery of Wall's death.

J. J. Boyd, the second of the suspects, was brought into police court this morning but, upon the request of County Attorney David Jensen, the preliminary examination was continued until next week, the exact date not being set. The county attorney gave as his reason for the postponement, the death of Wall. Boyd did not appear in anyway disturbed either by the death of his companion or by the charge which has been preferred against him. His attorney objected to the postponement but when the court ruled against him he stated that an effort would be made to secure the necessary bond, that his client might have his liberty while awaiting examination.

Boyd's bond has been fixed at $1,000 and his counsel stated that the amount would be guaranteed by Salt Lake parties this afternoon. Boyd was taken back to the county jail.

Found in Utahna Grounds.

At 1 o'clock this morning half a dozen detectives with flash lights, were searching the grounds on Twenty-fifth street, where the Utahna Park skating rink is situated. The buildings now unoccupied, naturally would furnish a convenient place for the caching of the loot from the Reed hotel, but that the police should not have made a search of the place until 1 o'clock this morning would indicate that some clue was given them, immediately before or after the death of Wall, which led to the midnight search.

It was after they had searched for a considerable length of time that Detectives Charles Pincock, Charles O'Neil and Private Officer Richard Pincock brought to the light of their pocket lanterns a small tin box. The box had been hidden under the floor of the building which had once been used as an ice cream parlor. Further search was made but no other boxes were found.

The box discovered was the property of the Ogden state and when stolen held about $35 in cash and checks. Since the robbery the box had been cut open and the contents taken out. All that the box contained was a few papers and two checks each for $5. Seventy-five cents which the thieves had overlooked also remained in the box.

The police state that early this morning a second box, also cut open and rifled of its contents, was brought to the police station by two boys. This box was found on Twenty-seventh street, between Grant and Hudson avenues. It was the property of the Reed hotel bar and when stolen from the hotel safe held over $100 in money and checks. When turned over to the police, it still contained two checks, one for $50.30 and the other for $2. It is said that the boys who found the box carelessly destroyed two more of the checks which were left in the receptacle by the thieves. No effort had been made to conceal this box in the place where it was found by the boys and it is thought to have been carelessly thrown away by some person after it had been rifled of its valuables.

Third Man in Robbery.
The police decline to state from whence the clue was obtained which led to the search of the Utahna park and are reticent concerning any new evidence which it is apparent they have secured. They still maintain that there can be no doubt of the guilt of Wall and Boyd and state that the death of the former will in no way affect the prosecution of the other.

Chief of Police Browning admitted this morning that there was a third man in the holdup and that this accomplice waited on the outside of the Reed hotel while his two companions entered the office. Just who this third man is the police will not make public. It is thought that this is the man who cut open the boxes and in whose possession the loot now rests. Another complication arises in the disappearance of Frank Welshaw, the man who discovered that Wall was dead in his cell. It is rumored that Welshaw is locked in the city prison, but the police state that they know nothing of his disappearance.

An autopsy will be held over the remains of Wall this afternoon when an analysis will be made of the mysterious bottle of fluid which was found in the dead man's cell after the removal of the body.

Death of Wall.
Wall would have been given a preliminary hearing this morning on the charge of having been implicated with J. J. Boyd in the holdup of the Reed hotel early last Monday morning, on which occasion the robbers obtained $857, after lining four men up against the wall and forcing Night Clerk Ralph Underaker, at the point of a gun, to open the safe.

Welshaw Found Man Dead.
The first intimation of the tragedy was received about 9:30 o'clock, when Frank Welshaw, a close friend of Wall, went to the man's cell, but the alleged holdup might have been dead for an hour or more, as nobody has been near his cell for two hours previous. His body was still warm, but all other signs of life were extinct, when Dr. Anna Reis, the city physician, arrived a few minutes later.

A very careful examination of the body and the cell failed to reveal the slightest trace of poison or evidence which would point to the supposition that Wall came to his death through other than natural causes. The position of the body did not show the slightest indication of a death struggle and, in the opinion of Dr. Reis, the man's death was indirectly due to the excessive use of intoxicants.

Appeared to Be Asleep.
Since his arrest on suspicion of being connected with the hotel holdup, Welshaw has been held in a witness and in lieu of bonds he has been forced to report to Chief of Police Browning at stated periods every day. He called at the city jail about 9:30 o'clock last evening and obtained permission to ascend to the women's department, where Wall was the only prisoner.

Chief Browning accompanied Welshaw to the second floor apartment of the jail. Wall was lying on a cot in the second cell from the stairway and apparently was fast asleep. He was fully dressed and his hands were extended at his sides in a very natural position.

Death Due to Heart Failure.
Welshaw spoke to the man and, receiving no response, he reached through the bars and shook his friend. This brought no response. Dr. Reis was summoned and a brief examination proved conclusively that life was extinct.

The physician then made a careful investigation to ascertain the possibility of death. The fact that there was no death struggle was the first evidence against this theory. Then, the condition of the body showed not the slightest indication of death from morphine, opium or other drug.

Recovered His Appetite.
Since his incarceration in the city jail the police have noted that Wall had been addicted to the excessive use of liquor and for several days just previous to his arrest in connection with the hotel robbery, he had eaten scarcely anything. During his stay in the jail it had been necessary to give him whiskey and bromide, but the supply was being reduced daily and he was recovering his appetite.

Yesterday he ate three very substantial meals, a special supper having been prepared for him. Throughout the day he appeared to be in the best of health and spirits since his stay in the jail.

Attorney Visits the Man.
Chief Browning believes that the last person who saw Wall alive was Attorney John Davis, who, according to the statements of the official, visited the man without first gaining permission from the officers. This was about 8 o'clock in the evening and about two hours previous to the discovery of the prisoner's death.

Hagbort Anderson Jr. was at the desk in the absence of his father, Jaller Hagbort Anderson, and Special Officer John Lampert was attending to the delivery of supper to the prisoners in the men's department. Chief Browning states that Anderson was called out of the room and he believes that it was then Attorney Davis entered and ascended to Wall's cell.

Boyd Told of Wall's Death.
J. J. Boyd, the other man who is held for the hotel robbery, and who has been confined in the county jail since his bonds were fixed at $1,000, was told of the death of Wall by Jaller Hagbort Anderson about 11 o'clock. The man did not display any great emotion, expressing himself only to the extent that it was "too bad." He also told Jaller Richey that he regretted having been told of the man's death, as he would worry all night.

Wall's body was removed to Lindquist's undertaking rooms, where it will be held, pending the action of the coroner. Steps were taken to learn the whereabouts of the man's relatives. According to Welshaw, the man has relatives living in Helena and a brother residing south of that city. There is also a story to the effect that there is an uncle who is a Chicago alderman.

The police learned during their investigation in connection with the robbery that Wall came to Ogden from Nevada about three weeks ago. He was about 40 years of age.

CARS TO THE CANYON ON SUNDAY

The Ogden Rapid Transit company will resume the operation of Ogden canyon cars tomorrow morning. The first car leaving for The Hermitage will start from the Union Depot at 9 o'clock. Canyon cars will run every hour and twenty minutes after that until noon; in the afternoon the schedule will be shortened to every forty minutes.

FALSE TIP LEADS TO A DISROBING

NEW YORK, March 17.—The wife and daughter of Joseph Hull, of Savannah, Ga., one of the wealthiest men in the south, were required to disrobe in their staterooms aboard the steamship Lusitania today, while a customs inspector, acting on a mysterious tip, subsequently found to be false, made a search for diamond necklaces, thought to have been purchased abroad. The search proving futile, Mrs. Hull and Miss Hull were allowed to proceed to their hotel, where another, Miss Nina Hull, convalescing from an attack of typhoid fever, had preceded them without having been subject to search. The necklace rumor dismissed, customs inspectors scrutinized the family baggage, and charging under valuations in the case of Mrs. Hull and the daughter, Eliza L., seized the articles in question. Mother and daughter maintained they acted in good faith, but their explanations were not considered satisfactory to Collector Loeb, and the articles were seized. The contest entirely of wearing apparel and will be held until "the home value," that is, the foreign cost, plus duty, is paid.

Joseph Hull was on the pier to greet his wife and daughter, as was a son, Daniel, a cotton broker, here. All were indignant at the proceedings and threaten to carry the matter to the courts.

"We were made to take off even our stockings," said Mrs. Hull. "Every stitch of our clothing was searched and even our hair did not escape. I consider this treatment an outrage, and I had no idea such a thing could happen on American soil."

It was explained for the family that the report concerning the necklace probably had come from Savannah, where "there was jealousy" over the fact that the Hulls were fortunate enough to enjoy foreign luxuries and fashions. As to the under-valuation charge, Daniel Hull said:

"My sister, Eliza, was the only one of the three who had previously been abroad, so my father sent a wireless warning to my mother and my sister to be very careful. From Savannah to meet his wife and daughter. He is president of the Merchants National bank of that city, chairman of the board of directors of the Savannah Trust company, and a director of the Central Railroad of Georgia."

"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

The Ogden Theatre has for its offering tomorrow night the famous American comedy, "A Gentleman from Mississippi," written by Harrison Rhodes and Thomas A. Wise, and presented by Wm. A. Brady. Local theatre-goers are more or less familiar with the merits of the play, which is one of the most successful comedies produced in twenty years. The story deals with a number of very ludicrous adventures of a newly elected Southern U. S. Senator, four little love romances and much intrigue and political trickery. A simple cotton planter from Mississippi is sent to the national Senate from his state and the play opens at the time of his arrival in Washington. Here he met a young newspaper reporter, Bud Haines, who impresses him so favorably that the Senator makes him his secretary. "Bud" is well versed in the methods employed at the national capital and saves the new Senator from many pitfalls. A shady land deal is engineered by some politicians and the Senator is compromised by his own son and daughter being induced to invest in it. He finds a way, however, to defeat the schemers and saves both his money and his family honor.

"A Gentleman from Mississippi" is loaded to the guards with uproarious comedy and the result is a roar of laughter from the first entrance of the Senator to the fall of the final curtain. Wm. A. Brady will bring his special cast here for this engagement, prominent among whom are Robert A. Fischer as Senator Langdon, John Butler as the newspaper reporter.

GEO. H. DAVIS MAY BE JUDGE

A report was circulated today, emanating from Salt Lake, that George H. Davis would be appointed to fill the new judgeship in this district.

Mr. Davis of late has been engaged in the practice of law in Ogden and Salt Lake.

N. J. Harris has been looked upon as having the judgeship at his command, but the placing of Mr. Davis in the field gives a new turn to affairs.

It is also stated that if Harris is made judge, then Davis will be named district attorney.

These rumors could not be confirmed.

WM. DRIVER & SON DRUG COMPANY

The William Driver & Son Drug company has been incorporated with a capitalization of $50,000, divided into 500 shares of the par value of $100 each. The incorporators and officers of the company are:

George W. Burton, president and director; J. J. Burton, director, treasurer and secretary; A. Rostan, director and A. A. McBride, manager.

The William Driver & Son drug store on Washington avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, has been taken over by the company at a valuation of $7,500. The new company will continue the drug business at the present place.

THE PARTNER IN THE HOME

(By Mrs. Helen Armstrong.)

Men earn the money and women spend it. This is very true even though the woman of the household handles no cash whatever. She who manages her home wisely spends part of her husband's income and saves a part, while she who is a poor manager and an extravagant buyer wastes the income of the finance-provider. The larger part of the outlay which goes to provide and maintain a home is spent at the instigation of the feminine members, and this is only right and fair, as they direct its management and live mostly within its shelter. Much of the extravagance of women is due to ignorance as to the value of money and some of it to ignorance of the real financial status of the man who is her partner.

If our girls are to be helpmates when they attain womanhood, it behooves us to give them some suitable training to that end. The domestic science education is valuable indeed, but the point which we now contend is the need of some real down-to-earth training to let children learn this practical issue in our lives. A stated allowance, however so small, is one of the best possible means of education, and this should be their own, to use without question. If they waste it, the time will soon come when they realize it only too painfully. If they become miserly, that, too, will bring its own lesson. Avidity is one of the few things which all are willing to give and none are willing to take. Let the young people learn to spend by spending and save by saving. It will mean a great factor in the wise expenditure of mature life. Women who have never earned a cent and who have been denied or surfeited, as the money market fluctuates, quite without rhyme or reason, should not be expected to become by instinct prudent purchasers. That is only gained by practice and experience.

The man who, through mistaken kindness or a foolish notion, that money matters are not a subject for family discussion, conceals true conditions from his wife cannot expect her to truly do her share in the time when retrenchment is necessary. Yet how large the number of men who gladly and proudly point to the time when the wife's economies and well-considered efforts helped to tide them over a rough place.

Generally speaking the woman is ready to do her share and oftentimes more than that, but it is her due that she be an intelligent side-partner, knowing the limitations of the income and thus keeping within the boundaries. She will be the first to guard against the proverbial rainy day for the average woman hates indebtedness and the thought of unpaid bills is misery.

She is clever enough to reduce the grocery bill, and yet feed us well; to clothe her family more simply, and yet consider good taste and custom; and to eliminate waste in her household without infringing on our comfort or happiness. If our hour of distress be relieved by her helpfulness, then in the day of prosperity she deserves her share of the good things of life. Co-operation is the true secret of the ideal home.

BUILDING UP BUSINESS BLOCKS

Stringers for the second floor of the Commercial National Bank building on Grant avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, have been placed and the brick layers are at work on the walls of the second story. The second floor of this building will be connected with the upper floor of the St. Louis building, at the corner of Twenty-fifth street and Lincoln avenue, the entire floor space of the two buildings to be used for office and rooming purposes. The ground floor of the building will be partitioned into three store rooms.

The tearing down of the old skating rink on Hudson avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, is in progress. Excavation work for the basement will be begun next Monday morning.

The Peery building on the corner of Twenty-fifth street and Hudson avenue has been completed and business concerns are now occupying it, and the Browning Brothers company have practically moved all of their goods and wares from their Washington avenue store to their new building on Hudson avenue, immediately north of the Peery block.

CIGARMAKERS AT THEIR ANNUAL BALL

St. Patrick's evening was fittingly celebrated at the Imperial Dancing academy by a select crowd of about 150 couples. The occasion was the seventh annual ball of Cigarmakers Local Union 367, and the members of the popular local made the evening most enjoyable for all present.

Each guest was presented with an attractive souvenir program containing twenty-four dances. Miniature cigars strung on green and baby ribbon were given away as souvenirs. Delicious punch and waters were served during the evening.

These features, coupled with the excellent music furnished by Foster's orchestra of seven pieces, left nothing to be desired.

The committee that so successfully conducted the affair are as follows: Arrangement—C. A. Hass, C. B. Brantling, Lou Knoke, E. J. Eklund, H. E. Close.

Floor—J. H. Flinchbaugh, C. B. Wallin, A. C. Feltz, A. J. Grant, George Wessler.

Reception—H. Girard, Joe Wessler, Frank Abels.

INSANE MAN RESISTS ARREST

Deputy Sheriffs Ludwig and De Vine, Friday afternoon, had considerable difficulty in taking into custody Adolph J. Christensen of Logan who was reported to be demented.

The arrest was made at 895 Twenty-seventh street at the home of a friend of the Christensens, with whom Mrs. Christensen and her husband had been visiting for some time. The man became quite violent when the officers appeared and he did all in his power to avoid arrest. He ran around the house two or three times before the officers got hold of him and when he saw that he was cornered he fought desperately and clung to the porch and trees with such tenacity that it required the combined strength of the deputies to release his grip.

The man was landed in the padded cell at the county jail, where he still remains. Christensen has not been violent today, but he continually moans and weeps for his home. He says he wants to see his wife, and he pitifully cries out for "Wilson" to come and release him.

He hammers at the door of the cell and declares that he will free himself from the prison.

Mrs. Christensen states that her husband has been partially demented for a number of years. She thinks he should be taken to the state mental hospital for treatment. This likely will be done this afternoon when Chairman Madison of the board of county commissioners will preside over an investigation by a board of lunacy.

WORKING ON HOWELL STORE

Notwithstanding the fact that an injunction has been served against the contractors proceeding with the construction of the new business block being erected by the Howell Investment company on Hudson avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, work on the building continues. No work is being done on the north wall of the building, which is to dispute, but the brick layers are building the south wall and the men are getting ready to lay the floor of the basement.

The dispute over the north wall will not be heard in court before the latter part of this month, but, in the mean time, the basement will be completed, and other walls of the building will be constructed.

SENATOR TAYLOR IS TO LECTURE

The chairman of the Weber Academy lecture committee received a communication this morning stating that, notwithstanding the special session of congress, Senator Taylor will be able to fill his engagement in Ogden on the 23rd of this month. As Senator Taylor is regarded as an exceedingly strong number, and as many inquiries have come in as to whether or not he will be able to appear, it was with much satisfaction that the committee received assurance this morning that he will be here.
